Wysiwyg IT

At Olney Middle School we have always sought to work on our IT projects and infrastructure with companies who can combine excellent value for money and high standards of workmanship with professional expertise whilst understanding the requirements for a flexible approach that are needed in a working school.

We have a longstanding relationship with Adam Sullivan and are pleased that his new relationship with Wysiwyg IT means that the high quality service and competitive pricing we have come to expect are available over a wider range of services and supplies than before.

We have been pleasantly surprised to find a company that was happy to point out a more efficient and cost effective solution to a problem – one that saved us money – over the solution suggested by other companies quoting for the same work.

The recent wireless networking project at Olney Middle school was completed on time, there were no residual technical difficulties (or mess!), and both the customer services and technical support available have been friendly and efficient – the work was completed over the half term holiday and a technical representative was in school on Monday morning to ensure a smooth and worry-free transition to the new system.

We have no hesitation in recommending their services.
